

I believe that deregulating media has done the American people a disservice. It is important for there to be a broad number of outlets and voices within the Media of America, and to accomplish that end there should be broad ownership of those outlets. I call on the FCC to not only stop the further deregulation of Media, but also to reduce the number of Media outlets that one company can own in a market.